An Evening of Advanced Dancing with Swallowtail!

Saturday June 7, 8 to 11 pm
Lovely Lane Church
2200 St Paul St., Baltimore

The Baltimore Folk Music Society is excited to be hosting an evening of advanced dances with Swallowtail. Put on your dancing shoes and get ready to move -- we won't be standing in line for walk-throughs this evening! George Marshall and Tim Van Egmond plan to call a series of challenging dances with minimal teaching. Expect to do all your favorite contra dance figures, including contra corners.

Swallowtail, a New England-based band that has long been a contra dance favorite, features the music of David Cantieni on woodwinds, George Marshall on concertina and bodhran, Ross Grosslein on fiddle, Tim Van Egmond on hammered dulcimer, and Timm Triplett on keyboards. This is a dance you won't want to miss!

Our camp is now located at Camp Ramblewood in rural Darlington, Md. We strive to introduce and educate our campers in the traditions of the Cajun and Creole cultures with our culture corner, cooking exhibitions, jam sessions with the musicians and music lessons on the accordion, fiddle, guitar, fratoire and triangle. We also offer voice lessons sung in the French Creole and Cajun dialects. There are dance lessons during the day as well as our "fais do do" (afternoon dance) and evening dances throughout the weekend.

And the food... Cajun./Creole food served for breakfast, lunch and dinner as well as an evening snack. You can dance all day and night or just relax and socialize with your friends and the musicians. Most of our campers have been coming to Buffalo Jambalaya for many, many years. We always have "first-timers" who become regulars.
